Ever since I moved to the Baltimore Area, I've had the pleasure of working with AYD Transport and its owner, Pam. With years of experience working with trucking companies and various setup vendors, I've unfortunately seen it all. It seems like most subs are only concerned with their next Purchase Order, but Pam and AYD Transport far exceeds that generality.

Whether it means weekend work, long hours or even driving the pilot/escort car herself, Pam has always been willing to go the extra mile. She takes pride in her business and in doing the job the "Right way" ....and it shows. It shows in the limited amount of setup service calls, it shows in the limited amount of re-work and it shows in her repeat customers. If I had to define Pam and AYD Transport in one word, it would be "Professionalism".

And, the transaction does not end with the expectations met, Pam and her experienced team are always asking for feedback on how to improve their process to save their customers time and money. AYD is not a simple 'mom-and-pop', one-truck provider, but they provide that kind of service while offering a wide range of trucking and modular solutions.

I have suggested them to co-workers and customers alike. And isn't that the best judge of promotion and customer satisfaction?
